DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
  - I. Claims 1-4, drawn to method of identifying high-affinity interacting domain in a protein using overlapping set of peptides bound to support, classified in class 436, subclass 517, for example.
  - II. Claims 5-8, drawn to method of identifying a compound which modulates interaction between high-affinity interacting domains between a set of overlapping peptides bound to support and a protein, classified in class 435, subclass 7.92, for example.
  - III. Claim 9, drawn to compound that modulates high affinity interaction between a set of peptides and a protein, classified in class 436, subclass 34, for example.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions have different modes of operation and different functions in that the set of peptides in Invention I are combined with a protein to identify high-affinity interaction therebetween and in Invention II, the set of peptides and protein are combined with a required test compound to determine its modulatory effect upon their interaction.

Inventions I and III are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions have different modes of operation, different functions, and different effects in that the set of peptides in Invention I are combined with a protein to identify high-affinity interaction therebetween and Invention III is a compound having modulatory effect upon interaction between peptides and protein.

Inventions II and III are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case, modulation of interaction between a set of overlapping peptides and a protein can be effected using physical stimulus, i.e. temperature.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper. Furthermore, because the search required for Group I is not required for Group II, and the search for Group II is not required for Group III, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper. Literature search for each method and product is distinct since the structural requirements of each invention are different. While searches would be expected to overlap, there is no reason to expect the searches to be coextensive.

2. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
